APPLAUSE!

The Eudora Welty Library series
showcasing homegrown writers opens its 2010 season with Jackson's very own

Kathryn Stockett

New York Times bestselling author

Wednesday, March 24

11 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Eudora Welty Library

Please see important event information on the next page.

Kathryn Stockett, author of The Help, Wednesday, March 24, Welty Library

This event is free and open to the public. Seating is limited.

Parking is available in the Welty Library lot and also directly north across Mississippi Street from the Welty at the First Baptist Church Family Life Center.

Reception with light refreshments begins at 11:00 a.m. in the Children's section at the rear of the main floor of the Welty Library.

Books will be available for purchase and signing during the reception. If you already own a copy The Help, you may bring it to be signed.

Kathryn Stockett will speak at noon in the Community Room off the Children's section. She will sign books, as time permits, before and after her talk.

Thanks to JFOL Board President Sue Berry, along with Lee Ann Bryan, Marian Barnwell, Lynn Clark, Natalie Maynor and the many other dedicated JFOL Board members whose volunteer service helps make special library events enjoyable; to JFOL Board member and Lemuria Books representative Maggie Lowery Stevenson for providing books; and especially to JFOL Board member, Welty Youth Services Supervisor and intrepid APPLAUSE! coordinator Ruth Davis for arranging Kathryn Stockett's personal appearance.
